A Haverhill lady and gentleman had a narrow escape from injury while witnessing the foot-ball game, Wednesday afternoon, from a buggy drawn by two spirited horses. The rope enclosing the field struck one of the horses, when going on to the campus, and he began to kick viciously. Soon they both became so frightened that they tipped the carriage, running a short distance with it and making a wreck of it. The occupants jumped and were not injured.

Foot-Ball.

The P.A. foot-ball team began secret practice Monday, and this will be continued until Nov. 11.

To-morrow afternoon the last game before the Exeter contest will occur on the campus. The Yale Freshman team will then line up against Phillips.

The new suits of the Phillips team will be furnished by Horace Partridge & Co. of Boston. They will be about the same as last year's, except that the sweaters will be of the "turtle-neck" pattern and the trousers will have a whalebone leg-guard in the padding, similar to those used by Harvard.

Last Saturday afternoon the score between Harvard '95 and Phillips was 10 to 10. The game was quite exciting, but Andover evidently showed that she was overworked, and in the second half, when Harvard scored her points, her play was decidedly ragged at times. One of Harvard's touchdowns was a fluke, but the other was earned. There was no snap at all in Andover's play and there was much fumbling and a misunderstanding of signals.

Harvard felt Sad.

The Harvard foot-ball team, and especially Capt. Waters, who did not play but was on the side-lines, went home feeling sad last Wednesday afternoon because Phillips had broken their clean record of this season and scored five points against them. Although Harvard made 20 points, this large score did not atone for the humiliation. Andover thus has the distinction of being the first team to score against Harvard this season. It was really the result of a bad play by Harvard.

It was in the first half, and Harvard had already scored 18 points. Harvard's quarter-back signalled for a play around the left end, and when the ball was in play he picked it up and passed it to Brewer, who was behind the interference. The pass was high, and when Brewer struck the Andover line he lost his grip on the ball and it fell over his right shoulder. Hazen, Andover's end, was, as usual, right on hand and picking up the ball sped away amid great excitement for the goal. Brewer, who is a great sprinter, brought him down on the 8-yard line. On the next play Andover got five yards for off-side play. They after one attempt to rush had failed, Letton fell back to try for a goal from the field. It was an exciting moment both for the spectators and players, especially Letton, but he took it calmly and aided by the fine blocking of the rush line he succeeded in kicking a pretty goal. The crowd then went nearly wild with excitement.

Harvard scored thirty points in each half, the first being thirty minutes long, and the second twenty. The interference of the Harvard team and her heavy line made it easy for her to gain, but Andover had better success than was expected and put up a defensive game which, according to Capt. Waters, was stronger than that of any other team which has played against them. Letton's punting was a great help to Andover, and although the Harvard rushers were through quickly, they never once blocked his kick. Hazen played a beautiful game, as did also Holt, the big guard, Rodgers, Greenway, and Letton also tackled finely. After the game the school fellows celebrated, being provided with horns by Mr. Cole, who had promised them a lot left over from a former Exeter game if they equalled the score of Brown against Harvard, which was 58-0.

Hon. Geo. M. Towle.

Dr. N. C. Towle, father of the late Hon. George Makepeace Towle and who makes his home here with his daughter Mrs. Frederic Palmer, has shown the TOWNSMAN editor two letters received at the time of the death of his son, and heretofore unpublished. They only go to show still farther the esteem in which the distinguished gentleman was held and will be of interest to his many friends here. The first is from ex-postmaster general Horatio King, and is as follows:

WEST NEWTON, MASS., }
AUG. 11, '93.

Dr. N. C. TOWLE.
My dear old friend:—We were startled and are grieved this morning at the announcement in the Herald of the death of your wonderfully gifted and distinguished son, George M. Towle. We had not heard of his illness. How proud you must be of him and of the record he has left. But for his loss here, one would think that his achievements in intellectual life had fully prepared him to enter at once on the higher life in the next sphere, where I have no doubt he is at this moment rejoicing at his deliverance from the cares and troubles of this world.

I can well imagine that, sorely grieved as you must be at his loss, you cannot fail to find sweet comfort in your religious sentiments and belief that he is still near you. The deepest sympathy goes out to you all, from my wife and your old friend.

HORATIO KING.

The other is accompanied with a poem from the Papyrus Club of Boston, of which the deceased was a member. It reads as follows:

BOSTON, OCT. 16, '93.

Dear Madam:—In reply to your letter, permit me to say that at the last meeting of the Papyrus Club there were the kindest expressions of deep appreciation of your son.

The few lines I wrote were written for Mr. Papyrus, and there was more care given to the thought than the meter, but cheerfully send you a copy. Assuring you of my deep sympathy, believe me,

Very truly yours,

WM. G. CHASE.

ON GEORGE MAKEPEACE TOWLE.

Died August, 1893.

How ended the life of our Brother?
With the comune, that some lives end?
With the thought incomplete
As if checked in the heat
Of the frenzy of life, saddest truth—
When death prone to mock,
Gathers into his shock,
Ripening age and glorious youth?
Do we think when we meet
Of you this dear friend?

How ended the life of our Brother?
No exclamation mark to end
A life of wild surprises,
Veiled deep in weird surmises,
Brilliant but beyond bleeding,
To leave our friendship bleeding.
Because we know how or when
To meet his equal among men—
Not so, not so—dear Brother.

How ended the life of our Brother?
With the dash that some lives end?
That leaves us to wait
And struggle with fate—
That leaves us to guess of the glory
The years might have written,
If death had not smitten?
And closed at inception the story
Of one who might have been great?
Do we think of you this dear friend?

How ended the life of our Brother?
Did a question mark his labor close?
Or rather did he sink to rest,
As after action comes repose,
And death to him was for the best?

How ended the life of our Brother?
After we sensed his full work
Knew him like us of the earth—
Loyal and patient and true,
Brilliant and weary and blue,
Working with tireless will,
Hewing with consummate skill
Facts for the people to hear
Honestly told without fear?
Then when the fire grew cold,
Then when the tale had been told
And the heart and vigor and brain
Ceased responding the same—
Came the period—ah! fitting end
Of your sentence complete, dear, dead friend.

WM. L. CHASE.

Papyrus, Oct. 7th, '93.
The life of Hon. Mr. Towle was marked by fine achievements, and a short sketch as given by his father follows:

After leaving Yale he took the regular course in the Harvard law school, and on getting his "LL.B." in 1864, he practised law for a couple of years in Boston, until he joined the staff of the Boston Post. During his collegiate and law courses he had always shown a strong leaning toward letters, and especially toward work in political and biographical lines.

When, after a year on the Post, he was appointed consul at Nantes, France, a position he held for two years, abundant opportunity was offered him for indulging these tastes. He left Nantes in 1868 to become consul at Bradford, Eng., where he remained until 1870. During these four years abroad he gained a very considerable knowledge of the life, literature, and politics of France and of Great Britain, and thus paved the way for his future work as a lecturer and a historian. He knew well such men as Victor Hugo, Renan, William E. Forster, the staunch friend of the North during our civil war; John Morley, then editor of the Fortnightly Review, and now chief secretary for Ireland, and Charles Dickens, to whose magazine, All the Year Round, he contributed about thirty articles, chiefly on American subjects. His acquaintance with Sir Charles Dilke, who was at that time owner of the London Athenaeum, led to his afterward becoming the Boston correspondent of that paper.

Returning to Boston in 1870, he became managing editor of the Commercial Bulletin, and again was connected with the Post as its foreign editor. From that time on he was a constant and popular contributor to almost all the American magazines, finding time, moreover, to write a long series of interesting and timely books on political and biographical subjects. He was also employed a great deal in translations from the French, chiefly of novels.

When the eastern question occupied all men's minds, along in 1877, Mr. Towle wrote a number of monographs designed to correct popular misapprehension on that subject, and in the same year he edited Harvey's well known "Reminiscences of Daniel Webster."

In 1878 he began the publication of a series of volumes on the early explorers and adventurers, the list of biographies including those of Pizarro, Marco Polo, Raleigh and Drake, the series bearing the general title of "Heroes of History." In 1879, three years before the completion of this series, he issued his well known "Life of Disraeli," perhaps the best, as it is one of the most popular of all his books. The result of his life in Europe and his subsequent studies at home were largely embodied in his "Certain Men of Mark," a volume containing sketches of such men as Bismarck, Gladstone, Gambetta, Victor Hugo and John Bright.

In 1885 Mr. Towle projected the "Timely Topics Series," and although his publishers' business troubles were a setback to the scheme, what books were gotten out possessed considerable value and a great deal of interest, and are still useful handbooks. The subjects treated were European and Asiatic politics. Among his other books are a "Young People's History of England" and a convenient little history of Ireland, designed mainly for boys and girls, to which the late John Boyle O'Reilly wrote the introduction.

It was, however, probably by his lectures that Mr. Towle was most widely and popularly known. He began lecturing in the latter part of 1881, taking as the subject of his first course, which was given at the Lowell Institute and in many eastern cities, the famous men of the time. Other courses were: "The Romance of Invention" and "The Governments of Europe," a topic peculiarly fitted to his abilities.

Mr. Towle was a republican in politics, and held several important elective offices. He was senator from the second Norfolk district in 1890 and 1891 and went to Chicago in 1888 as a delegate to the national convention which nominated Harrison. He had also been a presidential elector, and at one time was much talked of for Congress.

Cinders.

They are getting to be such temperance cranks in Kansas that they will not permit the elements to brew a storm.—Texas Siftings.

Family Friend: "I congratulate you, my dear sir, on the marriage of your daughter. I see you are gradually getting all the girls off your hands." Old Goldbranch: "Off my hands—yes; but the worst of it is, I have to keep all of their husbands on their feet."—Puck.

Mr. Stuff: "Good afternoon. Is this hot enough for you?" Mr. Puffy: "Oh, yes; it's just 95." Mr. Stuff: "What! has the mercury gone up to 95?" Mr. Puffy: "Not exactly, but you are the ninety-fifth fool who has asked me that same question to-day."—Boston Courier.

Mrs. McDuffigan: "Have ye taken yer little gerret away from the school?" Mrs. O'Duffigan: "I have; she was that smart that I cudn't open me mouth that she wouldn't be correctin' me speech, so I thought it was time for her to be earnin' her own livin' an' I sint her to work in the factory."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Scoundrel.

A man who had just finished a comfortable meal at a restaurant the other day suddenly rose from his chair, grabbed his hat and umbrella that stood against the wall and rushed out of the building.

"Stop him!" exclaimed the cashier. "That fellow went away without paying!"

"I'll stop him," said a determined looking man who rose up hastily from a table near where the other had sat. "He took my gold handled umbrella. I'll stop him, and I'll bring him back with a policeman. The scoundrel!"

Without a moment's pause he dashed out of the house in hot pursuit of the conscienceless villain. And the cashier, a cold, hard, unsympathetic kind of man, has begun to suspect that neither of them will come back.—London Tit-Bits.

He Showed Them.

Professor Macovius was often annoyed at the conduct of a wealthy student who was extremely vain. One day the latter wore a pair of richly embroidered stockings, with low shoes to set them off to better advantage. As he walked into the lecture room he protruded his foot so as to attract the professor's attention.

"What a remarkable stocking!" the professor exclaimed. "Let me look at it." The student raised his foot, and the professor grasped it as if it had been somebody's hand.

"See here, gentlemen!" he said aloud, and led the student, who was compelled to hop about on one foot, right through the room.—Familien-Kalender.

A Compromise.

Dr. Smith—You take three of these pills every day and give up smoking entirely for two weeks.

Johnny Smoker—Well, doctor; would it not amount to the same thing if I were to take six pills a day and give up smoking for only one week?—Texas Siftings.

A Peculiar Case.

HARTFORD, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Charles Peck of Lyme is slowly starving to death. She has been unable to take nourishment for 35 days, and her death is daily expected. Her physicians say there is no way to prevent her death from starvation, as her stomach will not retain nourishment.

Struck on Rocks.
NEW LONDON, Conn., Oct. 5.—The trial of cruiser Montgomery is indefinitely postponed. She went on the rocks at Black ledge approaching the harbor, and the injuries then sustained will compel her to be hauled out and recaulked before a further trial trip can be made.

After a Spree.
AUGUSTA, Me., Oct. 2.—Mary Scanlon, aged 45 years, was burned to death yesterday. She was intoxicated the night before. It is thought she tried to strike a light, when her clothes caught fire. Fred M. Dean was hurt while attempting to rescue the inmates of the house.

THE BIG REVIEW.

When I went up, a raw recruit,
To Bolina town from Scorer,
Our colonel wore a scarlet suit,
Like a warrior all ablaze.
Our colonel held a big review,
With knapsack, pouch and baggnet,
And the colonel's darter drove thereto
In a waggnet drawn by bays.

The horses pranced, the trumpets blawed,
The guns went off impartial,
But of all the regiment Private Coad
In a martial way did best.
"Stand forth, stand forth, thou hero bold!
To you the rest be second rate:
Tis you shall wear this clasp of gold
For to decorate your broad chest.

"Oh, where, Oh, where's my best recruit
That ere I paid a shillin for?"
But all the regiment stuck there mute,
Unwilling to explain,
Till forth I steps and gives a cough
An answer (in so dutiful)
"Look, colonel, dear, he's gallopin off
Wi' your beautiful darter Jane!"

"Of all the plans that e'er I've known,"
Says he, "I do call that a plan
To bring my hairs in sorrow down
With a rataplan to the grave.
"Form up, form up, each gallant blade!
Form up, my sons o' Waterloo!
We won't interrupt our big parade
For a mortal who can't behave!"
—London Speaker.

Vacuum.

The space above the mercury in a thermometer is not a perfect vacuum. There is not infrequently a small portion of air left in such space, and there is always an atmosphere of the vapor of mercury. Physically speaking, it is perhaps impossible to procure a vacuum. It is most likely that even if a real vacuum could be procured for an instant air or other vapor would at once begin to be disseminated from the sides of the vessel in which it was made, and it would thus instantly cease to exist.

It is true that Dextartes denied the very possibility of a vacuum and says, "If a vacuum could be effected in a vessel, the sides would be pressed into contact," but it is hardly correct to say, "Scientists say that a vacuum cannot exist." What scientists do say is what Galileo said, "Nature abhors a vacuum." As the statement of a fact is true, nature does, to the best of our knowledge, abhor a vacuum. She never suffers it to exist to the extent of allowing any space which is perceptible to our senses to be vacuum. Vacuum, in scientific speech, simply means a space from which air has been expelled.—Brooklyn Eagle.

He Was Conscientious.

Here is a good little story told by George Tyler, a young newspaper man who is actively engaged in theatrical management:

"One of my theatrical friends," said Mr. Tyler, "was not many seasons ago doing the Romeo to a very bad Juliet in a country town in Kansas. Even that rural audience could hardly stand the performance. Dozens of the auditors hissed. At length only one man was noticed as maintaining an absolute silence. At last the man who sat by this fellow said:

"Why don't you join in the fun?"
"It wouldn't be fair."
"And why?"
"Well, I came in on a pass; but if they don't improve darned if I don't go out and buy a ticket and begin on 'em."
—St. Louis Republic.

Her First Want.

A woman dropped into a Chicago newspaper office. She was bright and clever, but absolutely penniless. She stated her case plainly. She had been lying ill in a hotel for six weeks, with no money to employ a doctor, and only the sparse care that an overworked chambermaid was able to give her. Would the editor help her? He would. He gave her a subject for a special, advanced money on it out of his own pocket and said, "Now, my girl, you'd better go and see a doctor right off." "Oh, no," she said, "I must have a fall hat first."—Chicago Letter.

A Torpid Liver.

A clogged condition of the system is one symptom of a liver out of order. Here is as good and simple a remedy as any I know, writes a physician. Get a nice lemon, cut it in half. Take one half in a tumblerful of cold water, last thing at night, and the other first thing in the morning. Half a pint of very hot water with a squeeze of lemon or lime in it before breakfast is also good. Both remedies are well worth trying.—Liverpool Mercury.

"No, of course not. What makes you think my hair was wet?" he asked, very much surprised.

ATTACKED BY A COUGAR.

The Ferocious Brute Finally Trampled to Death by a Horse.

J. P. Jones, who lives near Perhama, Crook county, had a rather startling adventure with a cougar. He was speaking of his experience to some friends and said:

"I mounted a horse and went on a hunting expedition to a place about 20 miles from Perhama, taking with me an Irish staghound and an English pointer. I brought down a deer and a brown bear, which I left at a farmhouse, and bagged a number of wild pigeons and other fowl. While returning home about 10 o'clock at night along a lonely road about five miles from Perhama, I noticed what seemed to be two balls of fire in a tree but a yard ahead of me, and which stood but a foot or two from the road. At the same instant my horse, which is what is known in the 'cow counties' as an 'original herder,' drew up with a startled neigh, almost throwing me from the saddle. I took a close look at the thing in the tree and saw that it was a cougar crouched for a spring.

"As I tried to unstrap my rifle the animal sprang, but missed its mark and passed just over the horse's neck and about two inches from me. It rolled in the road, but recovered and sprang again, this time at the horse's throat. The horse bucked and threw me to the ground, half stunning me. The cougar then rushed upon me, but the staghound, which had been standing by, baying furiously, corralled it. There was a brief but terrific fight, and the dog lay dead not five feet from me. The pointer had disappeared, while the horse stood trembling in every limb. The panther again sprang at him, landing upon his back, and away the horse went.

"I recovered my feet in a few minutes, untrapped my rifle and started in pursuit. Five hundred yards from the scene of the encounter I found the horse standing still and the cougar lying dead at his feet. The horse bore marks of the cougar's claws upon his back, and his flesh was torn in several places. The cougar's head was smashed, presumably by the horse's heels. I cannot account for the result of the strange encounter except by the theory that a limb of a large oak tree, hanging low and directly over the road, struck the cougar and swept it off the horse's back, and the horse took advantage of the opportunity to trample him to death. The horse is vicious, as all 'original herders' are. These horses have been known to fight for hours until one or the other fell, but this is the first time I have heard of one fighting a cougar. I have the animal's skin and will keep it as a memento of the encounter. The horse was not badly injured and will soon be ready for service again."—Portland Oregonian.

A Monster Owl Killed in the Cataklis.

Henry E. McKenzie of Port Ewen came up the U. and D. railroad as far as Olive Branch for the purpose of shooting game. While out in the woods near Brown's Station a large bird flew over his head. McKenzie fired and succeeded in injuring one of his wings, causing it to drop in a woods near by. He quickly ran to where it fell for the purpose of securing it. When he reached the spot, he made an attempt to get it, but it sprang at him in such a furious manner as to cause him some alarm and a great deal of anxiety as to his personal safety.

With the aid of his companion, Edward Davis of Olive, and a long pole they succeeded in turning the bird on its back and tying its feet with a piece of rope, thus rendering it helpless and safe to carry. It turned out to be a great owl, a bird rarely seen outside of British America, its natural habitation. Its wing measurement is 5 feet, it stands nearly 24 feet high and has a head about 18 inches in circumference, surmounted in two large horns. The only injury done the bird was a slight wound about the left wing, and it was taken to Port Ewen by Mr. McKenzie, where he has it on exhibition. Many people who have visited Central park and seen the many curious owls there say that nothing like it, either as to size or resemblance, is on exhibition.—Pine Hill Sentinel.

A Life Line Suggestion.

It is evidently a veteran sailor who makes the suggestion that, as a vessel always goes ashore to leeward, and the life line shot from the shore must therefore be fired against the wind, and with all the difficulties which this implies, every vessel should carry a supply of rockets, which, attached to deep sea log line and signal halliards, would connect them much more speedily with the shore.—Boston Transcript.

The Safety Valve calls attention to the fact that the problem of silent machinery has been solved by a firm in Vienna. This firm is manufacturing cogwheels of pressed rawhide. The Constitutional Amendment.

So much inquiry has been made as to just what is designed by the proposed amendment to the Constitution of our State, we review in the following the legislation on the amendment and changes connected therewith.

The existing article in the Constitution provides that

"The expenses of travelling to the General Assembly, and returning home, once in every session, and no more, shall be paid by the government, out of the public treasury, to every member who shall attend as seasonably as he can, in the judgment of the house, and does not depart without leave." The voters are to be called upon this year to vote to annul this provision.

In its place a resolve in our last legislature provides as follows:

Chap. 59.—An Act relating to the issuing of railroad passes and the compensation of members of the legislature.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

SECTION 1. No railroad corporation shall issue to the governor, lieutenant-governor, any member of the council, any judge of the supreme judicial court or the superior court, probate court, municipal or district court, or county commissioners, or any member or member elect of the legislature, any free pass, or any ticket entitling him to transportation at a less rate of fare than is demanded of the public generally.

SECTION 2. Any officer, agent or employee of a railroad corporation who issues, delivers or offers to any person mentioned in section one of this act, or to or for any other person at the request, solicitation or procurement of any person mentioned in section one, any free pass or any ticket entitling him to transportation at a less rate of fare than is demanded of the public generally, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars.

SECTION 3. Any person mentioned in section one of this act who requests, for himself or another, accepts or uses any free pass upon a railroad, or any ticket entitling him to transportation upon a railroad, for which he has paid a less price than is demanded of the public generally, shall be punished by a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars.

SECTION 4. Each member of the senate and house of representatives shall receive seven hundred and fifty dollars for the regular annual session for which he is elected, and two dollars for every mile of ordinary travelling distance from his place of abode to the place of the sitting of the general court; and the president of the senate and the speaker of the house shall receive double the compensation provided for members, and two dollars for every mile of ordinary travelling distance from his place of abode as aforesaid.

SECTION 5. This act shall take effect upon its passage.

Approved March 14, 1892.

It will be seen that this resolve recognized the fact that the pass evil was a serious one, and that much railroad legislation was influenced by the passes that the railroads had become accustomed to give to members of the General Court, and by the passage of the amendment and the adoption of Section 4 it would seem that the question of mileage for members ought to be considered satisfactorily settled.

The above Act allows about one hundred passages to each legislator which ought to be enough for any session of our legislature.

Be Sure that YOU Vote!

Before another TOWNSMAN is issued the voters of Massachusetts will have chosen its local government for another year. The importance of the election from different party standpoints has been placed clearly before the people, and there is but little more to be said, and but little time to say it, before the votes will be cast. It is not the work of the TOWNSMAN to advance any particular party in our elections, but it is our most important duty to urge upon every citizen to vote for someone.

Vote because it is a duty. If you cannot vote because it is a privilege, and when you vote think of the most good to the largest number. The best man for public trust is always he who has proven himself in every private walk of life. The true friend of the laboring man is just as true a friend to capital.

Let the vote of next Tuesday record the demand of our citizens for the very best men to make the laws of the old Bay State in 1894.

Two Men to Vote for.

We have recently been accused by a Lawrence paper of having gone back on early pledges to non-partisanship. The TOWNSMAN has always contended that it could find a sufficient field within purely local lines, without going into political matters at all, and it intends to continue within these lines. It is very easy for personal opinions to get into newspaper writing, but we have not intended to depart from our pledge to keep the TOWNSMAN out of politics, only when its voice is needed for the upholding of the best against the less desirable.

We have strongly urged the defeat of Richard A. Carter for senator this fall because we believe that George I. Gage is the cleaner and better man. We believe that no interest of the district can suffer, and that every act of Mr. Gage's, if he is elected, will show him to be the same honorable, upright public servant that he has always proven himself to be in private life. We sincerely hope to see him elected.

We have yet one other exception to make in the present election in urging the claims of Henry W. Longfellow for another term as County Commissioner. Mr. Longfellow is the only democrat on the board, a very able business man, and a most excellent and courteous official. His familiarity with the duties of the office and his admirable record in the office should secure for him the support of all genuine believers in civil service, and in leaving such officials alone as long as they prove themselves worthy.

We hope that last year's experience will enable our officers to know better what is wanted in an election room, and make our precinct this year the quiet and orderly place that it ought to be. Let politics be dropped entirely for that day.

Corn Husking.

While our farmers who live on the outskirts do not have so many convenient opportunities for enjoyment as the rest of us, still there is one event which can be only truly enjoyed at a farmer's home, and that is a real old-fashioned corn husking. For goodrollicking fun mixed with a little labor it cannot be beaten. Wednesday night another one of these times occurred in the Holt District. It seems to have been given jointly by Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Tucker and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Harnden. The corn was the property of Mr. Tucker but the barn was furnished by Mr. Harnden, and being a new barn this was a grand opportunity to dedicate it. We presume the ladies were responsible for the bountiful supper which was served to all.

Over one hundred were present, including neighbors and friends from town and North Andover and a large party of Lynn shoe-makers, as they were introduced. About 125 bushels of corn were husked, and red ears seemed very plenty. After the husking came the supper, and in the meantime the floor was cleared and dancing followed. It was a very pleasant time and all enjoyed it.

Y. P. S. C. E. Election.

The Free Church Y.P.S.C.E. held its semi-annual business meeting at the vestry last night and a large number was present. After the business, which consisted of the reports of the different committees and election of officers, a lunch was served, followed by a pleasant entertainment.

The following were the officers elected for the ensuing six months: President, Charles Baldwin; vice-president, Herbert Goff; secretary, Annabel Richardson; treasurer, Charles Richardson. Look-out, Fred Goff, Clara Baldwin, Gertrude Roberts, Arthur Jackson, Lydia Dimmock; Sunday School, A. B. Saunders, Gertrude Jackson, Herbert Goff, Bella Greig, Cora Tough; visiting, Abbie Davis, Lizzie Soutar, Lora White, Mary Dick, Mary Soutar; flower, James May, Annie Lindsay; Martha Goff, May Bently, Lillian Bailey; missionary, J. Percy Roberts, Mabel Ashness, Ethel Stott; literature, Robert Lindsay, Marion Stott, William Lunan; prayer meeting, Stephen Jackson, Agnes Rose, Abbie Dimmock, Minnie Shattuck; social, David May, William Scott, Annie Buchanan, Lizzie Mander, Sarah Saunders.

CARD.

It is the desire of Mr. and Mrs. William Woods to express through the columns of the TOWNSMAN their heart-felt appreciation of the sympathy manifested by many during their recent bereavement and to express their gratitude and thanks to all who aided in alleviating the burden of this sudden affliction.

Prof. Kelley's Tableaux D'Art.

The entertainment in the People's Course Monday night by Prof. Kelley's Tableaux D'Art Company was fully up to the prediction that it would be one of the most novel and entertaining ever given in this course. Rich plush draperies at the back of the stage and calcium lights gave added effect to the beautiful groupings. The ten young ladies, dressed in creamy silk costumes, showed wonderful grace and ease in their positions and performed their parts in an excellent manner. Prof. Kelley personally directed the entertainment and explained the different movements. The quickness and precision with which each tableau was performed was remarkable, being done in full view of the audience and without leaving the stage, instantaneously at command.

Besides the tableaux there were other bright features. Miss Tripp, the violinist, captivated the audience by her excellent playing, and Miss Girardeau was especially good in "Come Here" and "The Minuet." In fact, it was a most satisfactory entertainment and well deserved the crowded house which it received. The program was as follows:

Wedding.

A quiet wedding occurred in Scotland District last night, when Martha G., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Abbott, was united in marriage to Mr. Ellsworth Pierce of Reading. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Warren Woodbridge of Medford, a cousin of the bride. Only relatives were present. They were the recipients of many handsome presents, which made a very pretty display. Miss Abbott has been a popular young lady in her community and the best wishes of her many friends will follow her to her new home in Reading, to which place they went after receiving the congratulations of those present. A newly fitted residence was all ready for their occupancy, and their home life begins under happy auspices among friends which Miss Abbott has made during the past six years, which she has spent there.

A Handsome Memorial.

A handsome marble tablet has been set up on the east wall of the chapel of the Theological Seminary in memory of the late John Adams, L.L.D., for twenty-three years, from 1810 to 1833, the distinguished principal of Phillips Academy, and ex officio, a member of the board of trustees of the two institutions. This memorial is the gift of a grand-daughter of Dr. Adams, Mrs. John Crosby Brown, of New York.

Registration.

Registration in this town closed Wednesday evening at 10 o'clock. More have registered than was expected on an off year. Thirty-three names were put on the lists at this session, making a total addition this fall of 58, which is one less than the number dropped. Last year the total number of names on the lists was 1177, and this year it is 1173, divided as follows—Precinct 1, 972; Precinct 2, 204.

The question in regard to a permanent location for the annual fair came up, and after some discussion the meeting instructed the trustee to vote in favor of this.

A Sad Ending.

DEATH OF WILLIAM WOODS.

A sad railroad accident at the depot last Saturday night caused the death of one of the most popular young men in this town, William W. Woods. For about ten years this young man has travelled between Andover and Boston, being a salesman in the wholesale establishment of the Boston Wall Paper Company, of which W. A. Corse was manager, until this firm went out of existence last summer. About two months ago Mr. Corse opened a store on Washington Street and Mr. Woods has since been associated with him.

Saturday night he left Boston at 7 o'clock on the train due here at 7.52. He carried a basket of grapes, and another small bundle. Just exactly how the accident happened no one will ever know. He may have fallen off and it is possible he may have attempted to get off before the train stopped. The former is more likely to have been the case. It is known for a fact that he was standing on the car steps before the train arrived at the depot. About a minute after the train left the depot Station Agent Hazeltine was notified by a young man that a body was lying between the tracks and platform about one hundred feet below the station. This young man who is a Boston dentist says he saw Woods on the car steps, but doesn't know whether he fell or jumped. However, he went to get his bicycle which he had on the train and went back expecting to see the one who had fallen come up brushing his clothes, but instead he saw the body near the tracks and then gave the notification.

It is the general opinion that the sudden stopping of the train caused him to fall and that he must have held on with one hand, as it was evident that he was dragged some distance. He was found lying in the small space between the platform and tracks, his head being towards the depot and the right arm close to the rail. The wheels did not pass over his body. Station Agent Hazeltine and night watchman Stewart removed the unconscious form to the waiting-room and Dr. Leitch was summoned. The doctor said there was no possible chance of recovery, as the skull was crushed and the brain protruding. The right arm was also badly mangled and there were several other cuts and bruises. At 9.40 o'clock he breathed his last, not having regained consciousness. The remains were taken to the undertaking rooms of F. H. Messer and viewed by Medical Examiner Howe of Lawrence.

The deceased was the eldest son of William Woods, our well-known painter, and was born in this town twenty-six years ago. After leaving the Grammar School he attended Cannon's Commercial College and then went to Boston. He was a member of the Elm Club, and was insured in the New York Equitable Company.

The news of his sad death caused the deepest grief and sympathy on all sides, for he was liked by all who knew him. No more popular young man ever lived in town and it will be remembered that he was a winner of the Boston Record's two weeks' vacation to the most popular salesman in Boston during the summer of 1890. He was a bright young man, honest and upright in all his dealings and commanded universal respect. One of the best things said about him is that "he never spoke ill of anyone." To his more intimate friends, and more especially to his family, his death was a sad blow.

Besides his parents he leaves a sister, Marion, and one brother, Walter, for whom sympathy is extended double-fold at this trying time. The funeral services were held at his home on Florence Street Tuesday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. Frederic Palmer of Christ Church. A large number of friends was present and the Elm Club attended in a body and also marched to the grave at the head of the procession. The bearers, also members of the Elm Club, were: C. A. Sullivan, J. W. Dean, F. P. Higgins, L. A. Dane, George A. Smith and N. G. Gleason. The remains were buried in the Episcopal Cemetery.

The floral emblems were many and made a most beautiful display. They included the following: Pillow, father and mother; 26 white roses, brother and sister; basket, and elm tree with broken branch, Elm Club; chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. James Wood, Boston; harp, broken string, McTernan family; basket, Miss Maggie McTernan; 26 white roses, five little cousins; pinks and violets, Cornell family; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. Sherlin; chrysanthemums, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Connell, Lynn; bouquet, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown, Wakefield; 36 roses, Mrs. W. J. Connell, Boston; lyre, with broken cord, Mr. William Corse, his employer, and associates; chrysanthemums, Miss Lottie Bushfield; 26 roses, Miss Annie McTernan, Lawrence; 26 pinks with foliage, Mrs. George O. Hill; pinks, Miss Kittie Barnett; chrysanthemums and roses, Mrs. George Ripley; violets, Mr. John Nico; basket; C. A. Sullivan; pinks, a friend.

Official Result of the Hospital Bazaar.

We are now ready to announce the proceeds of the bazaar which was held to assist in endowing a permanent bed in the Free Hospital for Women, Brookline, in charge of Dr. Baker and other leading surgeons of Boston. $341 clear is the result of the effort. Of this $250 have been sent to Miss Moreley, who is collecting the funds for the bed, as stated in our announcement, and $91 will be reserved for local work, in anticipation of unusual need. We wish most heartily to acknowledge our appreciation of the good-will and interest shown by Andover people in the object, which have brought about such generous results. We thank all the donors, known and unknown—our advertisers, those who gave and those who bought, the Grammar girls and their teacher, who in a short time brought their drill to such a state of perfection, the Panchard and Grammar boys who worked so enthusiastically, boy fashion, for themselves and the hospital, the Andover Orchestra, and the class from Miss Kummer's gymnasium. As is usual in such cases, a set of books was sent to both leaders in the voting contest, and an immediate and graceful acceptance with thanks was received. As soon as the fund of $5,000 is collected, and the bed an actual fact, Andover will be notified and thereafter entitled to a share of its ministering.

Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League.

ITS ADVICE AS TO THE ELECTION OF GOVERNOR.

We note a new factor which may be an important one in the gubernatorial campaign. The Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League, well known as a non-partisan organization composed of prominent men thoroughly in earnest in opposing the saloon, has just issued a significant circular to the friends of temperance in the state, in regard to the coming election. As between the Republican and Democratic candidates for Governor, one of whom is sure to be chosen, it strenuously urges the members and friends of the Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League to use their utmost endeavors to secure the triumphant success of the Republican ticket. The committee signing this circular is convinced that the nominees on this ticket "are personally in sympathy" with anti-saloon sentiments "and it elected will use their influence to give prevalence and power to these sentiments," and adds that "the gubernatorial candidate of that party [the Democratic party] has publicly declared that if elected he would veto any prohibitory measure passed by the Legislature."

Rev. Hugh Montgomery, so well-known in this vicinity as a fearless and zealous advocate of temperance, without respect to politics, is one of the committee, and adds his personal testimony as to Mr. Greenhalge's record, saying that "his standing at home is indicated by the fact that last spring he was elected President of the Church League, an organization composed of the pastors and lay representatives of all the Protestant churches in this city." Lowell. Honest, temperance men may be interested in knowing the position of the State League in this matter.

EVERYTHING FALLING.
He was walking down the street
Janney, nice as Prince Pro Tem,
Hoping soon his eyes would meet
Her so trim, his dear "fem. sem."
Ah, mine eyes! That figure lofty
Sure 'tis she he now perceives,
Lifts his hat, his footloose loaves,
Slippery are those greasy leaves.
Down upon his knees he tumbles,
Sadness fills the "fem. sem." tall
As she murmurs oh, so sweetly,
"At this time even leaves will fall."

There will be a harvest supper and entertainment in the vestry of the Union Congregational Church next Thursday evening Nov. 9th. Supper will be served at six o'clock sharp in order to accommodate those working overtime in the shops. A good entertainment will be provided.

The first anniversary of the Columbus Club will long be remembered by its members. It was celebrated last Friday evening in their hall. Dancing with music by a Lawrence orchestra filled the program until about 10 o'clock when supper was announced. President Riley and Miss Burke led the grand march.

The Y.P.S.C.E. held a sociable for its members under fifteen years of age in the vestry Monday evening, and the older ones met at the home of H. P. Wilson Wednesday evening. Halloween games and old time superstitions were revived and Miss Copeland read an original essay on Halloween and its observances. Mrs. Evans gave a piano solo.

The Shaker communities of Shirley and Harvard celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of the founding of the societies in those places last week. Elder John Whitely, who is at the head of these societies and who had charge of the ceremonies, lived here for some years prior to 1849. He was employed as a woolsorter at the Ballardvale mills where he was induced by conversation with his fellow workmen to join the Shakers. He has been a very influential member and has been presiding elder for many years.

Boston and the towns surrounding to whom it sells water are again in the field to take the Shawshen. It goes without saying that their plans will be vigorously opposed by everyone in the Shawshen valley. It is of the greatest importance, not only to the manufacturers whose mills line its banks and the operatives who earn their daily bread therein but to every person living anywhere near the stream, that our river be permitted to run naturally over its bed as it has for centuries. Take away half its volume of water and the reputation of our village as being a healthful one will vanish.

Our mills will have to change the character of their output or suspend operations and this in the face of the statement in the Herald recently, to the effect that, "manufacturing was increasing so rapidly in Boston that a further water supply would be necessary." Their manufacturers must have water at the expense of those who have used it for years. We must close our factories in order that Boston may encourage new ones and so add to its taxable property. Their plan is a shortsighted one at the best, as the Shawshen could not supply its needs for more than fifteen or twenty years. Why don't they build with a regard for the future and go to a proper source now? Let every one oppose taking the water of the Shawshen.

$100 Reward, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one breaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Mr. William J. Dale, Jr., was elected president and director of the Exeter Manufacturing Company at a meeting of the stockholders Tuesday.

The following were elected officers of Cochichewick Lodge of Masons Wednesday evening: W. M., Frank Tisdale; S. W., G. Perkins; J. W., G. A. Rea; secretary, C. E. Johnson; treasurer, Dr. Weil; S. D., F. Warren; J. D., S. D. Berry.

Mr. John Barker was elected a trustee of the Essex Agricultural Society at a local meeting at Stevens' Hall Tuesday evening. The vote regarding having a permanent place of meeting was a tie.

In consequence of a confession of Geo. Tucker, by which it was made to appear to the Prison Commissioners that he and not his younger brother, William H., was responsible for the crimes of larceny; and for which they received ten and nine years, respectively, about three years since, William H. Tucker was liberated from confinement at the State Prison at Charlestown last evening at 6 o'clock, by the order of the Governor.

Osgood Hall has been replete with social gatherings of a varied character during the past week. Friday evening Mrs. Moses T. Stevens entertained members of the North Andover Improvement Society and a few intimate friends. The cordial greeting and hospitality extended to the guests made the occasion a very agreeable one to all. An unexpected musical treat was afforded the company by several instrumental and vocal selections contributed by Mr. Moses T. Stevens, Jr., Miss Josephine Battles of town, and Mr. Ed. Aldred, chorister at the Unitarian Church, Lawrence. In a solo and duet, Miss Battles' soprano and Mr. Aldred's tenor were exceptionally fine, under perfect control, well meriting the frequent encores. Chocolate lunch was daintily served by Misses Mary, Virginia, and Helen Stevens who also assisted in receiving. Every moment was made enjoyable and could hardly failed to have been of social profit to those attending. Monday evening the younger members of the family with a delighted company of friends held a Halloween Party, and gaiety ruled the hour. Tuesday evening was devoted to mutual culture in music, the Musical Club being entertained. Mendelssohn was the study.

Hardly had the engine been placed in normal condition after service at the Hackett fire Sunday afternoon, when at about 6.30 o'clock another alarm was given which called out both arms of the service. No one knew where the fire was and with good reason for there was none. The Eben Sutton engine, however, reached the Carney residence before being ordered to return and Cochichewick 2 was also on the way toward the parish. An investigation by the engineers followed. Driver Davis had wound the alarm mechanism but a very few minutes previous to the arrival of some of the firemen stating that the "tickers" had rung in their houses.

The seat of the alarm is located by the engineers at the Eben Sutton engine house. A probable cause is a defect in the mechanism of the alarm system, which should be at once remedied, the negligence of the person or persons delegated to its care, or an unintentional or wilful setting off of the alarm inside or outside the engine house. A false alarm is said to cost the town about $30.

Sudden Death.

MRS. CHARLES P. BENNETT.

A message from Providence, R.I., Sunday evening, conveyed the sad intelligence to the family of Mr. Frank L. Prince of the very sudden and unlooked-for death of their younger daughter, Mrs. Irene Calvert, wife of Assistant Secretary of State Charles P. Bennett of that city. Death was due to embolism of the heart, and occurred at 7.30 o'clock. Up to within a very few moments of her death she was considered to be progressing very favorably and the result was a severe shock to her husband and relatives.

Mrs. Bennett was born in Manchester, N.H., nearly 26 years ago, but for several years resided in town; was graduated in the Johnson High School in the class of '86, and will be remembered as a bright, attractive girl, fond of society, generous-hearted, and with an alto voice of marked richness and power, which was in constant demand throughout the city. A brother, Walter L., of Boston, two sisters, Mrs. Helen Parker of Providence and Mrs. Walsingham Mills, and an infant daughter, Prince Hope Bennett, 3 weeks old, survive her. She had been married nearly four years.

A private funeral was held at the late home, to which she was greatly attached, 160 Adelaide Ave., Elmwood, Providence, at 1 o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Dr. Horton of the Union Congregational Church officiating. A profusion of floral tributes covered the casket. By the casket of its mother the little daughter received baptism. Mr. George Rogers was funeral director, and with Messrs. Thomas L. Phillips, H. B. Manchester, and Col. Henry B. Rose acted as bearers.

NOTABLE WEDDING.

BEAUTY, FASHION AND WEALTH ASSEMBLED.

CHICKERING-RUSSELL.

Adorning the crest of a hill, at whose base ripples the waves of beautiful Cochichewick, and from whose summit a westward view presents the picturesqueness of adjacent elevations, and in the distance the dim outline of Wauchusett and other lofty eminences, is the slightly summer home of the Russells, Lake View Farm.

Thither on Saturday were bidden guests to the number of about 160, representing circles of culture, fashion, refinement and wealth, of New York, Washington, Boston, Newton, Lawrence, Haverhill, Andover and town, in honor of the wedding of Miss Anne Elizabeth Russell the second daughter of Hon. William Augustus and Mrs. Frances S. Russell, and Principal John Jameson Chickering, of Columbian College, son of Prof. J. W. Chickering of the National Deaf-Mute College, Kendall Green, Washington, D. C.

Guests from a distance arrived in a special car attached to the 9.30 o'clock train from Boston, and were conveyed in barges to the family residence, where they received cordial greeting, and agreeably awaited the joyous hour. Meanwhile, Thornton Bros., of Lawrence, with deft fingers and artistic skill, had transformed the west parlor into a pretty bower in which a bride might fittingly receive the greetings and well wishes of her friends. The decorating flowers were chrysanthemums relieved by palms, ferns, and the delicate asparagus fern. Large clusters of white chrysanthemums were knotted with white ribbon to the upper rail of the balusters in the hall.

As the Columbian Orchestra of Lawrence sweetly played the wedding march of "Lohengrin," the bridal group moved with stately step to the parlor. The groom, accompanied by Mr. Lawrence Abbott, of New York, as best man, was followed by Miss Elizabeth Haven Russell, younger sister of the bride, as attending lady; ushers, Mr. William A. Russell, Jr., assisted by Messrs. J. H. Corning, Washington, D. C., Walter U. Lawson, Newton, George A. Hilton, Boston; and the pretty bride escorted by her father by whom she was given away. The costume of the bride was of heavy white satin and its beauty was further enhanced by a garniture of point applique lace. The delicate bridal veil was caught with fragrant orange blossoms. The bride's flowers were white roses. The attire of the bridesmaid was of fine white material, and she carried white chrysanthemums. Rev. George A. Gordon, of the Old South Church, Boston, assisted by Rev. J. W. Chickering of Washington, father of the groom, performed the ceremony during the noon hour.

The scene was such that nature deeply frowning a short time before, now beamed brightly, auguring a pleasant future for bride and groom.

The ushers were favored with unique pins of mother-of-pearl and gold, by the bride, as a memento of the occasion. A reception continuing from 12.30 till 2 o'clock, followed the ceremony, many of the guests returning to Boston by the special car attached to the 2.30 p.m. train. Cook of Boston prepared and served the wedding feast. Many valued gifts were bestowed upon the bride.

Mr. and Mrs. Chickering left town, and after a brief tour will be pleased to greet their friends at 25 Iowa Circle, Washington, D. C., Wednesdays after Dec. 13.

Hon. William A. Russell is a wealthy paper manufacturer and the family has a widely extended acquaintance in Washington social circles, gained during the service of Mr. Russell as congressional representative from this district.

Two Freight Trains Collide—Trainmen Uninjured.

The regular freight from Salem, due in town about 6.30 o'clock, was struck by the engine of a special coal freight just in front of the ice houses at Stevens Village Saturday morning at 6.37 o'clock. As a result of the accident, four box cars, one platform car, and the caboose of the regular were damaged and left in a zig-zag manner across the tracks. The engine of the special No. 522, one of the newest and heaviest on the line, was overturned and broken by the force of the collision, which was that of an enormous battering ram, the force being much increased as the heavy coal cars were shunted close, and the brakes set on a down grade. None of the cars of the special nor the tender were upset. The regular train was, as near as can be learned, about 7 minutes late, and had been unloading freight from the main track. A flag man had been sent by conductor Ramsdell to stop the approaching special which was in close proximity.

Engineer Quimby said that when the signal came, the flagman was but a few car lengths away from the rear of the forward train. He immediately reversed the power and applied the brakes, but to little purpose as the train was upon a curve on down grade, and slippery tracks. Seeing that to avert a collision was impossible he and the fireman jumped the cab and escaped injury. The train was at the time going slowly but the momentum was irresistible in so short a distance.

Engineer Dowse of the regular was in response to orders, just starting his train when the accident occurred and in a half minute would have been out of the way. The shattered caboose of the forward train caught fire from the stove, but the efforts of Cochichewick 2 company quickly subdued the flames. All the wrecked cars were unloaded and the only loss is to the rolling stock of the road, and compared with other wrecks the damages are light. About eight o'clock a wrecking train from Lawrence and one from Salem were upon the spot, and Div. Supt. Perkins of the eastern line started the forces at work. The morning and noon trains were delayed only about nine minutes as they exchanged passengers. Engine 522 was righted and got upon the track at 3.10 P.M., and removing the remainder of the wreck was a comparatively easy task. By evening the various trains could pass safely, the track which had been badly warped and twisted, having been repaired. The news spread rapidly and called together many people Saturday and Sunday. Our town has been happily free from accidents of this kind for years. At 4.30 o'clock Sunday evening every vestige of the game had disappeared.

A new departure in Salt.

It is a well known fact that the famous Crystaline Salt has been sold exclusively in round cartons—the only sort of package that absolutely keeps out dust and odors. There are people, however, who will buy salt in bags. In order to suit all trade we are now putting up Crystaline in both kind of packages—cartons and bags.

CRYSTALLINE SALT
